

RAAF Museum houses Australia's largest and most important collection of military aircraft, along with an extraordinary collection of artefacts. In the biggest redevelopment RAAF Museum has seen in twenty-five years, two of the four display hangars have been reimagined and redeveloped using modern design and technology techniques that makes those spaces dynamic, understandable and immersive.

In his talk, Wing Commander Mathew Shelley, Officer-In-Charge RAAF Museum will describe the redevelopment activity leading to public reopening of a reinvigorated RAAF Museum in June 2022; and, shares insights into a future vision for RAAF Museum as a national destination for the Australian community to deeply engage with Air Force and its history, and an important place for Air Force personnel to connect with their service.
