

Professor Clive Williams MG

Clive is a former Australian Army Military Intelligence officer, and currently Director of the Terrorism Research Centre. His background in defence intelligence includes heading the predecessor organisation to the Australian Geospatial-Intelligence Organisation and being Director of Security Intelligence.

Clive is a Distinguished Life Member of the International Association of Bomb Technicians and Investigators, a Member of the International Association of Chiefs of Police (IACP), and several other professional organisations. He regularly conducts international field work in the areas of terrorism and counterterrorism, politically motivated violence, and insurgency and counterinsurgency. He is an Honorary Life Member of the RSPCA.